

Face & Skin

Acne like facial blemishes may be noted on some babies' cheeks and chin within a week or so. These are normal, require no special care and will disappear gradually. Infants often have peeling of the hands and feet which will disappear gradually without the need for any creams or moisturizing lotions.

Nails

When it seems necessary to trim your infant's nails with scissors, carefully cut straight across the edge of the nail. His/her hands relax when sleeping and it's easier at this time than when he/she's awake.
